

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
DISTRICT OF MAINE

UNITED STATES MAGISTRATE JUDGES

The Federal Magistrates Act of 1968 established the position of United States Magistrate, and the Judicial Conference was empowered to provide for the allocation of full-time and part-time magistrates. Prior to the Act of 1968, U.S. Commissioners were appointed to serve in Bangor, Augusta and Portland.

Magistrate judges serve as judicial officers of the U.S. district courts and exercise the jurisdiction delegated to them by law and assigned by the district judges. Magistrate judges may be authorized to preside in almost every type of federal trial proceeding except for felony cases.

Two part-time magistrates were authorized for the District of Maine; and on March 1, 1971, two magistrates were appointed, one in Portland and one in Bangor, replacing the three commissioners serving at that time.

By 1972, an additional part-time magistrate was authorized in the District, and on August 15, 1972, a second magistrate was appointed to serve in Portland. On December 23, 1982, one of the Portland positions was converted to full-time status; and on March 20, 1989, the Bangor position was converted to full time.

Since the Federal Magistrates Act was enacted in 1968, the District of Maine has enjoyed a fine roster of magistrate judges whose roots have been in Maine and who have been highly-regarded by the Court, the bar and the community, having served the District of Maine with distinction.

United States Magistrate D. Brock Hornby
